GRP-001

Treatment groups versus task groups?

GRP-002

Support group versus interpersonal process group?

GRP-003

Psychoeducational group?

GRP-004

Self-help or mutual aid group?

GRP-005

Open versus closed groups?

GRP-006

Typical size for a treatment group?

GRP-007

Composition guideline?

GRP-008

Purpose of pre-group screening?

GRP-002

Support: peer-driven, lower intensity, less directive leader. Process: here-and-now member interaction is the vehicle for change.

SAMHSA TIP 41 (2005) Ch. 2: Types of Groups Commonly Used in Substa...

GRP-001

Treatment groups meet members' social-emotional needs (support, education, growth, therapy, socialization). Task groups accomplish work (committees, teams, boards).

Toseland, R. W., & Rivas, R. F. (2017). An Introduction to Group Work Pra...

GRP-004

Peer-led, with no professional leader (for example, 12-step groups).

Toseland, R. W., & Rivas, R. F. (2017). An Introduction to Group Work Pra...

GRP-003

Leader-directed teaching of information and skills about a shared problem.

SAMHSA TIP 41 (2005) Ch. 2: Types of Groups Commonly Used in Substa...

GRP-006

Small enough for interaction: often about 6-10 members (Yalom suggests about 7-8 for interpersonal groups). Children's groups are smaller.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-005

Closed: fixed membership, stronger cohesion, predictable stages. Open: rolling entry, immediate access, but cohesion is less stable and stages recycle.

Toseland, R. W., & Rivas, R. F. (2017). An Introduction to Group Work Pra...

GRP-008

Assess fit, explain purpose and norms (including confidentiality and its limits), set expectations and reduce early dropout.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-007

Homogeneity of problem or goal with heterogeneity of coping style; avoid leaving one member as 'the only one' of an identity.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-009

Who may be poor candidates for an interpersonal process group?

GRP-010

Tuckman's stages?

GRP-011

Boston model stages (Garland, Jones and Kolodny)?

GRP-012

Preaffiliation (beginning stage)?

GRP-013

Power and control stage?

GRP-014

Intimacy stage (Boston model)?

GRP-015

Differentiation stage (Boston model)?

GRP-016

Separation stage reactions?

GRP-010

Forming, storming, norming, performing; adjourning was added later.

Tuckman, B. W., & Jensen, M. A. C. (1977). Stages of small-group develo...

GRP-009

People in acute psychosis or crisis, at active suicide risk needing individual attention, or unable to tolerate the group setting.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-012

Approach-avoidance and testing; members are cautious and depend on the leader. Leader gives structure, clarifies purpose and builds trust.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-011

Preaffiliation, power and control, intimacy, differentiation, separation.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-014

Growing closeness and family-like feelings among members; cohesion rises.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-013

Struggles over status and testing the leader. Normal, not a sign of failure. Leader addresses conflict openly and non-defensively.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-016

Regression, denial, missed sessions, new problems or recapping the group's history.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-015

Members are accepted as individuals, the group develops its own culture, and mutual aid peaks.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-017

Leader's role early versus later in a group?

GRP-018

Leader tasks in the beginning stage?

GRP-019

Leader tasks in the transition (storming) stage?

GRP-020

Leader tasks in the working stage?

GRP-021

Leader tasks in the ending stage?

GRP-022

Yalom's 11 therapeutic factors?

GRP-023

Universality?

GRP-024

Instillation of hope?

GRP-018

Introductions, clarifying purpose, co-creating norms (confidentiality, attendance) and linking members' shared concerns.

Corey, M. S., Corey, G., & Corey, C. (2018). Groups: Process and Practice...

GRP-017

Early: more active and structured. Later: less central, encouraging member-to-member interaction.

SAMHSA TIP 41 (2005) Ch. 4: Group Development and Phase-Specific Tas...

GRP-020

Focus on here-and-now process, deepen cohesion, support members' goals and step back to let members help one another.

Corey, M. S., Corey, G., & Corey, C. (2018). Groups: Process and Practice...

GRP-019

Expect conflict and challenges to the leader; respond openly; protect members; make hidden conflicts and subgroups overt.

Corey, M. S., Corey, G., & Corey, C. (2018). Groups: Process and Practice...

GRP-022

Hope, universality, imparting information, altruism, corrective recapitulation of the family, socializing techniques, imitative behavior, interpersonal learning, cohesiveness, catharsis, existential factors.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-021

Announce the end early, review gains, process feelings about ending, generalize skills and plan follow-up.

Corey, M. S., Corey, G., & Corey, C. (2018). Groups: Process and Practice...

GRP-024

Seeing others improve builds belief that change is possible.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-023

Learning that others share one's problems ('I'm not the only one'). Especially powerful early.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-025

Corrective recapitulation of the primary family group?

GRP-026

Group cohesiveness (Yalom)?

GRP-027

Interpersonal learning?

GRP-028

Imitative behavior?

GRP-029

Is self-disclosure one of Yalom's 11 factors?

GRP-030

Monopolizing member: first response?

GRP-031

Scapegoating?

GRP-032

Silent member?

GRP-026

Members' sense of belonging and acceptance; the group equivalent of the therapeutic relationship.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-025

Old family patterns are re-experienced in the group and worked through differently.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-028

Members learn by modeling the leader or other members.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-027

Members gain insight into how they affect others through feedback in the here and now; central in process groups.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-030

Work at the group level: invite others in, link themes, ask the group about how time is shared. Meet privately only if that fails; never humiliate.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-029

No. Catharsis and interpersonal learning are factors; self-disclosure is a process, not one of the 11.

Yalom & Leszcz (2020). The Theory and Practice of Group Psychotherapy...

GRP-032

Respect the silence and consider culture; invite participation gently (for example, rounds). Don't force disclosure.

Corey, M. S., Corey, G., & Corey, C. (2018). Groups: Process and Practice...

GRP-031

The group targets one member, often displacing tension or anger meant for the leader. Protect the member and explore the dynamic with the group.

SAMHSA TIP 41 (2005) Ch. 6: Group Leadership, Concepts, and Techniques

GRP-033

Subgrouping?

GRP-034

Member arrives intoxicated to a substance use group?

GRP-035

Members challenge the leader's rules in session three?

GRP-036

Confidentiality in groups?

GRP-037

Co-leadership: benefits and risks?

GRP-038

Group termination: member reactions and leader tasks?

GRP-039

Papell and Rothman's three group work models?

GRP-040

Reciprocal (mutual aid) model: leader role?

GRP-034

Remove the member from that session safely and address it individually; don't process it with the person while intoxicated.

SAMHSA TIP 41 (2005) Ch. 6: Group Leadership, Concepts, and Techniques

GRP-033

Make the subgroup's existence overt and discuss it with the group.

SAMHSA TIP 41 (2005) Ch. 6: Group Leadership, Concepts, and Techniques

GRP-036

The social worker asks members to keep confidences but must tell them it can't be guaranteed (NASW Code 1.07(f)), and explains the agency's disclosure policy (1.07(g)).

NASW Code of Ethics (2021) 1.07(f)

GRP-035

Normal power-and-control or storming behavior. Acknowledge and explore it without defensiveness; don't cancel the group or eject members.

Garland, J. A., Jones, H. E., & Kolodny, R. L. (1965). A model for stages of...

GRP-038

Regression, denial, absences or new problems are common. Review gains, process feelings, consolidate learning and plan follow-up; rituals can help.

Toseland, R. W., & Rivas, R. F. (2017). An Introduction to Group Work Pra...

GRP-037

Benefits: modeling, coverage, shared observation. Risks: competition and splitting. Co-leaders debrief before and after sessions.

Corey, M. S., Corey, G., & Corey, C. (2018). Groups: Process and Practice...

GRP-040

Mediator who helps members help each other (Schwartz).

Schwartz, W. (1961). The social worker in the group. In The Social Welfar...

GRP-039

Social goals (civic action), remedial (individual change; leader as change agent) and reciprocal (mutual aid; leader as mediator).

Papell, C. P., & Rothman, B. (1966). Social group work models: Possessio...

GRP-041

Mutual aid?

GRP-042

Sociogram?

GRP-042

A diagram of interaction patterns among group members (who talks to, likes or avoids whom).

Toseland, R. W., & Rivas, R. F. (2017). An Introduction to Group Work Pra...

GRP-041

Members help one another by sharing experience, information and support; the leader fosters it rather than being the only helper.

Schwartz, W. (1961). The social worker in the group. In The Social Welfar...